

RFA Handbooke 1979-80

Mr. E. Ll. Bailey,
11 Townley Road,
LONDON, SE22

The Editor: RFA Handbook

Re: The SERVICE and LETS

May the receiver claim a let if the server masks his serve?

I maintain he should not: he can place himself wherever he likes and closely observe how the server shapes.

Also: some servers serve very close to the angle, so enabling a very soft "un-retrievable" service or a "ditto-smash". To be tactfully discouraged!

Some things simply are not done but are done.

E. Ll. BAILEY

P.S. These points arise especially from Schools Competitions.
